

HE'S NO. 1: There's no dispute about the rank of Kenneth Krauel among Berrien county motorists. He has documentary proof to substantiate his purchase of the first 1967 license plate sold at the license bureau, 505 Pleasant street, St. Joseph. Krauel, route 2, Benton Harbor, bundled up to be first in line at 9:45 p. m. Monday for the plates that went on sale at 8:15 a. m. today. He purchased RA-0001 from clerk Liz Ballard. Getting RA-0002 was John Crawley, 230 Birdie street, Benton township, who started a vigil at 11 p. m. Monday. Krauel and Crawley kept each other company by shivering throughout the night. A partner in a Benton township pattern works was reported shot in the back about 9 a. m. today at his plant, Standard Match Plate Company, 1001 North Shore drive. Otto Reschke, 50, was reported in "fair" condition later at Mercy hospital where he was being treated for a 22 caliber bullet wound according to township police. About 30 minutes after the shooting, Reschke's wife, Daisy, 48, of 745 North Shore drive, was taken into custody.

by Patrolman Robert Shembarger. Shembarger reported that Fred Gnodtke, a witness, gave this account: A woman entered the office and asked to speak with Reschke. He came to the office, talked with the woman. As he turned to leave the woman fired four or five times. Gnodtke told Shembarger that Reschke disarmed the woman after the shooting and she fled. Police found a .22 caliber pistol in the office. Officers took Mrs. Reschke into custody at nearby Lafayette school. They said they were informed by a relative that Mrs. Reschke would meet them at the school. She was brought to township police headquarters and held pending consultation with the county prosecutor, said Sgt. Paul Farris. Reschke and Gnodtke are partners in Standard Match and their wives are sisters, according to Gnodtke.

Area's Halloween Quiet Except In South Haven

Vandals went on a window smashing spree in South Haven last night while most other southwestern Michigan communities reported relatively little damage from Halloween pranksters.

South Haven police said plate glass windows in five downtown stores were smashed by objects thrown from passing cars. At least eight city residents reported windows broken in their homes.

In the Twin Cities area, police received some reports of vandalism but observed that most ghosts and goblins rated good conduct stars.

An estimated 1,500 teenagers worked off Halloween enthusiasm at two big dances conducted at the St. Joseph Recreation Center in St. Joseph.

David Agay, co-chairman with Ed (Doc) Bartz said police chaperones counted 1,200 young people at St. Joseph high school gym and another 300 at Lakeshore high school. The "Upper Crust" a rock and roll band from the Twin Cities, played at St. Joseph and "The Ghosters" of Coloma played at Lakeshore. Both bands appeared under a grant from the recording industry.

CHEERY WELCOME Youngsters in the Twin Cities area were greeted with a warm welcome at the St. Joseph Recreation Center.

bags of goodies they collected. But there were a few miscreants to mar an evening of wholesome fun.

A pre-Halloween night prank resulted in apparently costly damage for a motorist. Lenny Freshour, Woody's cottages, Paw Paw lake, reported to Berrien sheriff's officers Monday morning that sugar had been poured in the gas tank of his car.

Benton Harbor police reported that an 11-year-old girl had her treats snatched by a boy who returned them and ran when he saw her father appear on Empire avenue near Pavone street.

Four complaints of broken windows were received in Benton Harbor last night.

Sees U.N. As Corrupt Beehive

Ex-Peace Force Chief Protests

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Swedish Maj. Gen. Karl Van Horn — former commander of U.N. forces in the Congo, Yemen and Palestine — has leveled a blistering attack against the United Nations, charging it is infested with corruption, inefficiency and intrigue.

In a 400-page book called "Soldiers of Peace," Van Horn charged that some U.N. administrators had "foggie notions about reality," were "filled with a passion for formalism" and "resembled a flock of angry bees when they were criticized and saw their hive threatened."

Van Horn, 60, resigned as commander of U.N. troops in Yemen in 1963. He had served earlier as head of the U.N. Truce Commission in Palestine in 1958 and 1961 and was commander of U.N. forces in the Congo in 1960.

In a television interview, Van Horn said he had not submitted his manuscript to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant "as it would be too much to ask that he would approve of my views."

A U.N. spokesman in New York said there would be no comment on the book.

In his book — which goes on sale in a few days — Van Horn declared that some U.N. employees took their jobs to "make money in suspicious ways: smuggling, black market deals, espionage, and corruption."

Van Horn wrote that U.N. losses in the Congo could have been sharply reduced if the troops had been efficiently equipped and if the civilian administrators had not meddled in the military operation. Dr. Ralph Bunche, an American, was civilian chief of the U.N. Congo operation at the time.

Van Horn also was critical of Israeli officials during his tour in Palestine. He accused the Israelis of plotting against him and finally boycotting him.

One Israeli official, he said, kept an "open house" in Jerusalem where attractive girls were used to sway U.N. officers to the Israeli cause.

Van Horn said he finally terminated his posts with the United Nations because of broken promises from top U.N. leaders and because of the U.N. secretary's "complete inability to look the world political realities in the eye."

Members of the board weren't fully satisfied with a report from the judiciary committee—which handles county dog matters—that the valuable hound had been choked to death by a county dog warden.

Judiciary Committee Chairman Lamont Tufts of St. Joseph read a report of results of a two-month investigation which said that Warden Emanuel Thierbach confessed having strangled the Berrien Center dog with a chain and then drove to Benton Harbor to bury the carcass in a dump.

Warden Thierbach, of Berrien Springs, meanwhile, is under suspension from his duties and the judiciary committee was to meet today to consider his future with the dog warden's staff.

The dog, owned by Earl Shaffer of Berrien Center, turned up missing after Thierbach picked it up on Sept. 1.

According to the account given Tufts, the problem began when Mrs. Eldon Paustian of Berrien Center called the dog pound to say Shaffer's dog was loose.

She asked that the dog be picked up and when Thierbach arrived Mrs. Paustian's nine-year-old son helped him put it in the county truck, Tufts said.

Tufts said Thierbach first reported that he took the dog to the pound, but Chief Dog

Supervisors OK Budget, Pay Raises

The Berrien County Board of Supervisors Monday approved a $3,237,450 operating budget for the next fiscal year and a $17,957,850 property tax load for the county. They went on, with little dissent, to give six elected officials pay raises totaling $7,100. For complete story of the meeting, see Front Page of Section 2.

Warden Stanley Wolkins said he hadn't seen it when Schaffer came to the pound to recover it.

Lie detector tests were arranged for parties involved, but then, Tufts said, Thierbach told them the dog hadn't reached the pound. Thierbach said it became hard to handle and he choked it to death with a chain.

Supervisors seemed skeptical. Arguments Monday centered around the mild dispositions of the coon dogs and whether or not a man could or would strangle one. Then they shifted to whether or not the county should admit liability in this type of case.

Supervisors Roger Carter of Coloma township and Harry Gast, Jr., of Lincoln township both conjectured on the floor that the dog may well have been sold, not killed. They noted that trained and proven coon hounds bring big money in the fraternity of raccoon hunters.

Tufts' report said Shaffer had paid $250 for the dog about six months earlier and had put in considerable time perfecting its training. Schaffer set its value at $300.

MORAL OBLIGATION Most supervisors agreed they had a moral obligation to Shaffer, but wondered if they might not be setting a precedent. If liability is accepted in this case, Niles Supervisor Sheridan Cook

DR. JOHN DONETH Housewives 'zero in'

Food Still Is Good Bargain

Prices Really 'Not So High'

By BRANDON BROWN Farm Staff Writer

Food prices aren't up nearly so high as you think, in the view of Michigan State University Agricultural Economist John Doneth.

Doneth, main speaker at the Twin Cities Rotarians' annual rural-urban day Monday in the Whitecomb hotel, St. Joseph, said food prices rose 14 per cent from 1958 to 1965, while the cost of services jumped 23 per cent and factory and retail workers' wages rose 20 to 23 per cent.

Meanwhile, farm net incomes have gone up only 8 per cent. Housewives have "zeroed in" on food prices because they're an everyday item, Doneth said, while rising occasional expenses like doctor's fees and new cars slip by with hardly a murmur.

ECONOMIST'S VIEW Food, even up 14 per cent, is "still a bargain," Doneth maintains.

Of every dollar consumers earn, 18 cents is spent on food. Only 7 cents of this goes to the farmer, Doneth said. A penny winds up as food industry profit and the balance — about 55 per cent of the total — goes to wage earners such as processors, shippers, and sellers.

He also indicated that food prices are not the cause of inflation, but the result.

Doneth's talk, "Agriculture — Which Way from Here," also included both slaps and pats on the back for farmers.

They're efficient compared to agriculture in the rest of the world, but "almost obsolete" by modern American management standards, he said.

NEED FOR FORESIGHT Farmers are guilty of running their farms pretty much out of their hip pockets without much foresight, Doneth said. He suggested a form of "crystal ball" cure, with farmers feeding information into a computer center that would shoot back the proper answer to questions like, "Should I buy the adjoining 80 acres?" and "How will I do if I add another 50 dairy cows?"

Farmers also should ask themselves "Does it make me a dollar, or doesn't it make me a dollar," before making major changes or investments.

He predicted a major farm management revolution over the Area Voters Answer Queries Put By Sen. Zollar

By PAUL DODSON Staff Writer

Ninety-two per cent of those answering a survey made by State Sen. Charles Zollar said they believe law enforcement agencies need greater power in dealing with crime.

This was one of 25 issues covered on a questionnaire Zollar recently sent out to 5,200 persons in the 22nd senatorial district. About 1,500 of the 5,200 answered the questionnaire for a 28 per cent return that Zollar said was "tremendous."

The mailing list for the first 5,200 questionnaires was compiled from the names of people who had written Zollar about one thing or another. A second mailing of 5,000 questionnaires was sent out this week with the list for this batch compiled from lists of registered voters.

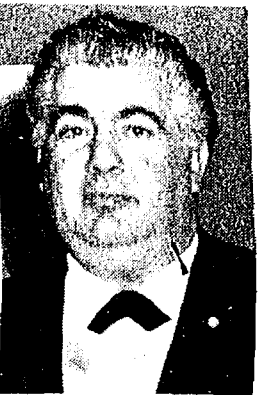

The results of the first survey show that 76 per cent are against a pay raise for the legislature; 74 per cent favor legislation on "implied consent" to blood tests for drivers suspected of being drunk; 95 per cent were against naming the Mackinac bridge after G. Mennen Williams; and 76 per cent believe the workmen's compensation law is unfair to farmers and small businessmen and should be amended.

MISSED ON TWO "The results of this survey confirm my voting and thinking on all but two issues," said Zollar. He said 59 per cent of those answering said they were against state support for an osteopathic college, a measure he voted for.

"I was for it because the osteopaths themselves said they would put up $4 million for the college," said Zollar.

He also found 74 per cent of those answering the survey are against the state providing tuition grants for Michigan students attending private colleges. "I don't think the people realized that it was the students and not the colleges that were getting the tuition grants. I believe every student is entitled to state aid if he or she has the ability," said Senator Zollar.

He said the people who responded to the survey represent a good cross section of the population because 18 per cent were hourly employees, 16 per cent were salaried employees, 15 per cent were business men, 15

Halloween Turns Into Negro Riot

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Halloween vandalism mushroomed into rioting by hundreds of Negroes who threw bottles and rocks through windows and shot out street lights. Bonfires blazed in the streets.

Six hours after the first report of brewing trouble reached police Monday night, officials said order had been restored. But patrols remained in the area until dawn.

Police Chief Willard Booth described the Negroes as "irresponsible young adults and teenagers." They threw paint on sides of buildings, smashed store windows and street lights, fired rifles into the air and set trash fires in the streets, police said.

Our Durable Domestic Foe

Inflation is the number one domestic problem in the United States. The major questions about it center around how much higher prices will go and whether or not the government's anti-inflationary measures will indeed curb its steady climb.

Functioning under the new theory that economic progress can be regulated through selective tax hikes and cuts, the Administration has sought a series of boosts in business taxes, including a suspension of both the 7 per cent tax credit and accelerated depreciation allowance on new buildings. It has directed its anti-inflation weaponry at corporate capital spending, apparently believing a slowdown in business expansion will be sufficient to curb inflation.

Economists outside of government circles, however, believe the measures will have little immediate effect on inflation. In fact, they have become so confident the Administration will have to ask for a boost in the income tax to fight inflation that corporate economists are advising budget makers to prepare for higher taxes. Moreover, there is widespread belief that even with an increase in income taxes, inflation has developed enough momentum to extend into, and perhaps beyond, mid-1967.

An economist for a major electronics firm finds the reason for these forecasts is found in the character of inflation itself. He says, "We are in the midst of a very subtle change in the nature of inflation, from the type of inflation associated with excessive demand to a type associated with rising costs." More broadly stated, prices, which so far have been pushed up primarily by the pressures of strong demand on U.S. industrial capacity, will be pushed yet higher by rising costs of labor and materials.

A recent National Industrial Conference Board survey supports the generally pessimistic forecasts of private economists. It reveals that suspension of the investment tax credit is unlikely to have much effect before late 1967 or 1968, because most companies are committed on expansion programs through next year. The Economic Unit of U.S. News & World Report notes that total government cash spending (including social security, unemployment benefits, and other trust fund spending) will rise by some $8.6 billion next fiscal year, even after cuts are made in various programs. It is likely that continued large outlays in government spending will thwart other efforts to fight inflation. With defense spending expected to rise, adding more pressure to inflation, a tax increase will be required out of necessity.

Many authorities, therefore, predict continued inflation, at least through the first half of 1967, and higher taxes. United States' citizens will thus be subjected to greater depreciation of their purchasing power. As dollars decline in value and taxes go up, budgets will be stretched thinner.

In the background is the shadow of freedom destroying controls over wages and prices. The policy makers and the experts, to say nothing of the rest of us, face a future that is fraught with uncertainty.

Pollution And The Other Guy

A major timber company official made an address recently on the subject of preserving pure water, clean air and natural beauty. He touched on points that deserve emphasis.

For one thing, what is pollution? In the minds of many, it is defined something like this: "Pollution is what the other guy does." Communities vote down adequate sewage treatment facilities. Individuals think nothing of driving cars with smoking exhausts or leaving a trail of refuse behind them in national forests and parks.

Another point to remember is that it takes bigger industries to meet the needs of more people. As the timber company official observed, "Growth and progress have created problems."

It took many years for people, autos, and industry to build up to a condition of overuse of air and water. It will take years to solve the problems of protecting the air and water we use. Some industries tackled these problems long before people and communities were aware they existed.

The timber company official reports his company has spent over $100 million in air and water protection measures since World War II. It has devoted more than $7 million exclusively to research and study. Last year, it spent $6.5 million to protect air and water. It plans to spend millions more in years to come.

He continued: "We consider air and water natural resources to be guarded and perpetuated as carefully as we guard and perpetuate the 3.7 million acres of timberlands this company owns."

In the final analysis, laws, regulations and huge capital investments by industry can only do so much in the problem of preserving air and water. The rest depends upon an awareness by the individual that pollution is not wholly what the other guy does.

Those Lost Taxes

Every time the government enters a commercial business, a source of tax revenue is lost, which must be made up by taxpayers. With impending heavy tax increases at every level of government, this is far more than an academic matter to already overburdened taxpayers.

The gigantic federal income tax-exempt electric power projects, which are held up as models of progress and efficiency, are examples of privileged government commercial enterprise that deprives the nation of hundred of millions of dollars in tax revenue.

Some measure of the extent of lost revenue incurred by these projects may be realized by looking at the taxes levied against the investor-owned electric utility companies, which of its electric power needs. The tax liabilities of these investor-owned companies is their largest single item of expense, amounting to $2.7 billion in 1963. Federal taxes accounted for $1.5 billion of the 1963 total, and state and local taxes, $1.2 billion.

In the past 25 years, when taxes climbed from the equivalent of 16 per cent to 23 per cent of operating revenues, the companies' total taxes have amounted to $32.3 billion. Two thirds of this, or $20.9 billion, was levied in the last decade. Based on the trend of increasing use of electricity and at present rates of taxation, the companies' taxes over the next ten years are estimated at over $35 billion.

At the moment, there are proposals to extend government further into the electric power business. Wherever it advances in this direction, the tax rolls shrink. In fairness, government owned commercial enterprises should pay the same taxes as private enterprise.

Flu Epidemic Unlikely

There should be no widespread outbreaks of influenza in the U.S. this winter, according to the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta. Both A and B types of influenza were present in various parts of the country last year.

Epidemics seldom occur two years in a row. Some cases of B type are expected in the eastern part of the country this winter, and occurrences of A type in western areas. The two strains appeared in reverse order last year.

Higher mortality rate of type A may be accounted for by the fact it attacks the elderly more often than the young. It is not expected that no major outbreaks are anticipated this

QUIET NIGHT FOR GOBLINS

—1 Year Ago—

Halloween, 1965, was a quiet night without its pranks in Berrien county. And there were some malicious destruction reported. But essentially, it was quiet. Unusually quiet. The familiar sight of children in ghostly garb was evidenced Saturday night but their numbers appeared to have been depleted — possibly by confusion concerning the Halloween date.

Halloween fell on Sunday. Through mutual agreement among various community officials, it was decided that Saturday, between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. would be set aside locally for the trick-or-treaters. Weather conditions were ideal for youngsters in their annual outing, but throughout many areas of the county their ranks were smaller than on Halloween, 1964.

A story going the rounds concerns the aging billionaire who felt he was losing his zest for life and decided upon a thorough check-up by a corps of New York's most prominent specialists to see if there was anything radically wrong with his innards. After two weeks of tests they presented him with a staggering bill, but an encouraging diagnosis. "You're in fine shape for a man your age," he was assured. "Only things at all out of line are, as to be expected, your blood pressure and your cholesterol count — both just a bit too high!"

Reassured, the billionaire hailed a cab in front of the clinic and headed for his office, hoping to catch a few employees making hay while he was away. The cabbie thereupon announced, "I seen you coming out of that clinic. You look perfectly healthy to me, mister. I'd only say that your blood pressure and cholesterol count are a little too high!"

speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Each year before the cold weather sets in we wonder if our family should have the Asian flu vaccine. We feel it has been worthwhile even though some of our friends do not. How do you feel about this vaccine? What is the general feeling of the value of the vaccine against the common cold?

Mrs. V. N. New York Dear Mrs. N.: The United States Public Health Service recently released a bulletin that stated "relatively little influenza will afflict the United States during the coming winter and the spring of 1967." Nevertheless, vaccination against Asian flu is recommended to the aged, the infirm, to those with chronic debilitating illnesses and the other high risk groups. Vaccination should begin in the early fall.

The vaccine that is used is made up of many strains of the influenza virus. It is considered to be very effective in reducing the severity of the flu in those cases where it does not entirely prevent it.

Since there are no unusual or dangerous reactions to the vaccine there really is no reason why the physician's advice to take it is not readily accepted.

Under the supervision of Public Health experts, 1,675 recruits at the Great Lakes Naval Training station were given an anti-influenza vaccine. It was found that there was a definite reduction of other respiratory disease by at least 20 per cent. A number of different vaccines were tried in an effort to find the one that would be most effective.

As a physician I feel that if the severity and the duration of a single severe illness can be reduced by vaccination it is worth trying.

Too often people are confused by the fact that they "catch cold" even after taking a flu vaccine.

It must be emphasized that the Asian flu vaccine is directed only against the epidemic form of influenza and not against the common cold.

Physicians have found that some of their patients react well to the combined cold vaccine which seems to reduce the frequency and severity of the ordinary cold.

All cases must be evaluated by the physician who has followed the past history of his patients. His advice about the flu vaccine and the common cold vaccine should be followed each year.

Brawler, goldsmith, troubador, booster, assassin and genius Benevenuto Cellini was born in 1500, in Florence, Italy. Supposedly, he was to follow his father's profession of musician and maker of musical instruments, but at the age of 15, got himself apprenticed to a goldsmith and set upon a career of his own.

Four years later, in 1519, Cellini became involved in an escapade and was forced to leave town. Going to Rome, he was under Michelangelo, developing a skill that attracted the attention of Pope Clement VII, for whom he produced medals, caskets, candlesticks, and other objects. He distinguished himself in the defense of Rome against a Spanish attack, but was later thrown into prison for the murder of another goldsmith.

Love affairs, hot-headedness and a sharp tongue brought violence to his career, and he was often forced to flee from one city to another, one step ahead of the law. Nevertheless, he was without peer as a goldsmith, Michelangelo admired his sculpture, he wrote a notable, vivid and forthright biography, and performed military deeds that won the gratitude of the Pope.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1966

TIME LIMIT PUT ON BID FOR RENEWAL BLOCK

Problems Continue In St. Joe

May Wind Up Without Any Building Offers

St. Joseph may end the year without any offers to redevelop its urban renewal block bounded by Main, Ship, State and Port streets.

Only two firms have expressed interest in construction on the site. Monday night, St. Joseph city commissioners were given a firm proposal by Andrew S. Olipra of Olipra & Associates Realty Service of Franklin Park, Ill.

However, the letter says: "This offer will remain open until 12 o'clock noon, EST, Nov. 15, 1966." The city commission is not scheduled to select the redeveloper until Jan. 9, 1967.

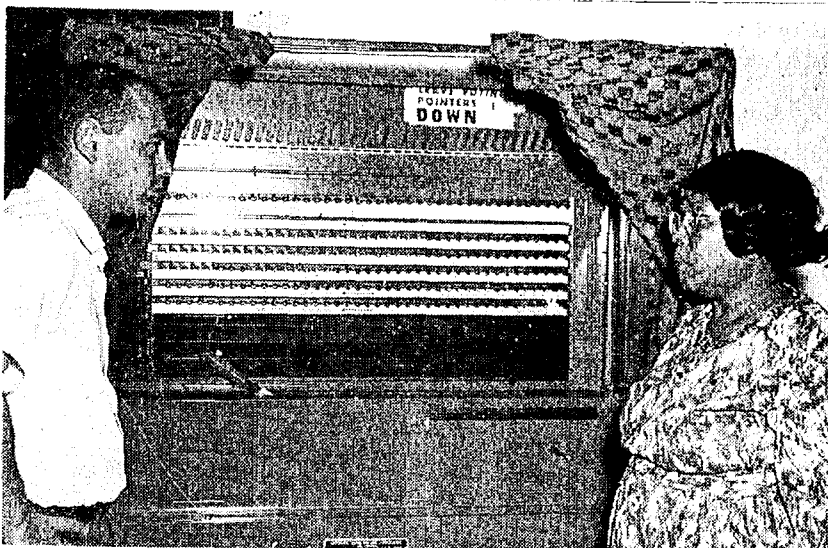

Zisook Hotel System of Chicago has expressed an interest in building a motel on the block, but has not made a formal offer. Olipra's proposal is also to build a motel complex.

OBJECTS TO DATE
Atty. Joseph Killian, who represents Olipra, contests the Jan. 9 selection date, saying it was made in special consideration of the Zisooks.

The commission two weeks ago chose Nov. 7 as the decision date, but moved it back at the request of Atty. David Vanderploeg, representing the Zisooks. The motion was made by Commissioner William (Duke) Ehrenberg. Killian charged conflict of interest on the parts of Ehrenberg and Commissioner C.A. (Toby) Tobias. They both own downtown gasoline service stations and Olipra's proposal includes a station.

After Monday night's meeting, Killian said he considers the decision to delay the selection date invalid because Ehrenberg and Tobias were not

VOTING MACHINE INSTRUCTION: One of Benton township's voting machines, set up just at it will be for the Nov. 8 elections, has been placed in the Blossom Acres community building to give instructions to voters on how to use it. One of the instructors is Mrs. Elijah Osby (right), chairman of the Precinct Two election board. With her is Benton Township Clerk Ronald J. Taylor. qualified to vote on the resolution.

Commissioner William Houseal, a corporation counsel for Wheelpool Corp., said the document received by the commission Monday night is a "position letter."

LAW SUIT POSSIBLE
"This is what we refer to in the business as a supposititious letter. This is the beginning of a law suit," said Houseal.

Last week, Olipra was asked how much delay he would put up with before he "pulled out of St. Joseph." He replied he had some $40,000 spent on the project and had every intention of sticking with it until the commission made its decision.

Monday night, however, Killian said: "We're not supplicants at anyone's table. We're not beggars. We're not paupers. We don't have to build in St. Joe; we can go someplace else with this deal."

"I wasn't talking last week just to hear my own noise. I meant what I said."

"The commission 'recognized' Olipra's offer, rather than accepting it, and made no comment while they were in official session."

Three changes were made in the minutes of the commission's last two meetings. One was to insert two words left out of a phrase by accident.

The other two were of more import.

One was to make it explicit that the $75,000 deposit placed by the selected developer of the urban renewal block will be forfeited if he fails to perform according to standards he delineates and the commission accepts.

The other change was an addition demanded by Tobias. He insisted that his challenge last week of Stuart F. Meek as the city's urban renewal attorney be entered. Tobias maintained last week that a conflict of interest existed because Meek is associated with Killian, Spelman & Taglia.

Tobias' comments prompted City Manager Leland L. Hill to report he had a letter of resignation from Meek which will be on next week's commission agenda.

Hill also reported he has contracted with auctioneer Mike Young of St. Joseph to sell the contents of the Tip To Sandwich Shop. The Tip To was closed Saturday. It is the last building standing in the urban renewal block.

The auction will be at 10:30 a.m. next Saturday. A story in this newspaper Monday erroneously said it was held last Saturday.

Mayor William Rill offered his congratulations to the former Tip To owners, Mr. and Mrs. William (Bill) Connors. "I'm sure downtown St. Joe will miss them," said Rill.

In routine urban renewal action, the commission approved borrowing $1,435,931 from the federal government to pay off the first urban renewal mortgage trust from Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. The money will be borrowed at 4 1/2 per cent interest.

City Clerk Charles Rhodes said the interest will become part of the total urban renewal cost which will be divided with the city paying 25 per cent and the federal government the rest. Bills totaling $55,088.61 were approved for payment.

Completion Slated For Fall Of '67

Interest Rate Within Limits

Sale of $225,000 in revenue bonds Monday assures start of construction on a new Benton Harbor public library within a week to 10 days, City Manager Don Stewart announced.

The bonds were sold at an interest rate of 4.9999 per cent. The issue carried a maximum specified rate of 4.5 per cent. Purchasing the issue was a syndicate headed by Keenauer & McArthur of Detroit. Other members are Manley, Bennett, McDonald Co. of Detroit; Berrien Securities, Inter-City bank, Farmers & Merchants bank of Benton Harbor.

A sale attempt on Oct. 11 produced no bidders and the issue was readvertised. Stewart credited John Kinney, Jr., chairman of the library building authority, with making the contacts that produced a bid.

The library will be built adjacent to the present 63-year-old library on Wall street. Site is made available through urban renewal and rerouting of Wall street. Completion is scheduled for early fall of 1967.

Total cost of the project is $621,000 with one-third from a federal grant, the remainder from the bond issue and the library building fund.

Benton Youth Accused Of Taking Car

John Sherman Atcher, 17, of 1234 Blossom lane, Benton township, was arrested early today and charged with carrying a concealed weapon and unlawfully driving away an automobile, according to New Buffalo state police.

Troopers Justine Kukalis and Richard Apter said they stopped Atcher, driving a car without light on, as it emerged from an alley near Fair avenue and Main street in Benton township at about 2:30 a.m.

The troopers reported a .38 caliber revolver was found. Atcher was being arrested on the concealed weapon charge. Sam Rustin, 1275 Broadway, reported to township police that his car had been stolen.

Troopers then looked Atcher on the auto theft charge.

'SQUAW WINTER'? Snow Already! Heavier Tonight

The first day of November provided the first snow of the season this morning.

And the Weather Bureau at Grand Rapids forecast that heavier flurries this evening could leave the ground covered with the white stuff—particularly in an area close to Lake Michigan from the Twin Cities south to New Buffalo. As much as two or three inches could accumulate in this narrow belt, the forecast said.

A thin flurry of snowflakes fell over most parts of southwestern Michigan early this morning. They melted upon contact with the ground, as the temperature hovered slightly above the freezing point.

Some additional light flurries may appear again tomorrow, the Weather Bureau predicted. The Grand Rapids weather office said snowflakes were seen in most of the western half of the state this morning, and that one inch of snow covered the ground at Mears, in Oceana county near Hart.

The sudden switch in weather here caught an Easter lily plant in bloom at the home of Mrs. Sam Caldwell, 1183 Broadway, Benton Harbor. Roses were to be found in numerous gardens.

PREDICTION

Mrs. Estelle Phillips of Coloma, said today's cold snap represents "squaw winter," and that the snow will be followed by the traditional Indian summer and some good weather.

Mrs. Phillips also offered a prediction of her own that the approaching winter will be a mild one.

Basis of her prognostication is that onion skins are not sticking tight now. When onion skins stick tight while being peeled, it means a hard winter, she contended.

Market Master Resigns

Donald Cluster Bows Out Nov. 12

The Benton Harbor market board last night accepted the resignation of Donald Cluster as market master effective Nov. 12.

Cluster's letter of resignation indicated disappointment that he previously had not been tapped to manage the new market scheduled to be in operation next year on a 23-acre site near the airport. The board is looking for a "specialist" and Cluster said three years and seven months of operating the present market have given him the qualifications.

The market board also voted to push ahead on the site by advertising for bids on grading, installation of water and sewer lines and other earthwork. Bids will be opened at a board meeting Nov. 10. The reorganized market board is composed of seven members of the city commission.

Plans called for the grading to be completed during the winter with asphalt surfacing and erection of stalls in the early spring for a May 15 opening.

Cluster, 37, receives a $7,000 annual salary for a six-day week in the summer and 40 hours during the winter. Board members feel they will have to top that pay to get a real "specialist" in the field.

"I didn't want to stand in their way of getting a 'specialist' and submitted my resignation now that the market season is over," Cluster told this newspaper. He added that the market has a great potential.

Cluster was appointed market master in 1963 from among 15 applicants. He was employed in the Benton Harbor post office at the time as a distribution clerk. He is a graduate of Michigan State university and was employed at Millburg Growers Exchange before joining the postoffice.

His future plans are not definite but several possibilities are being considered, he said.

City Manager Don Stewart said a job description will be written and various marketing authorities consulted. He added that the uniqueness of the city's cash-to-grower operation means that the field of such specialists are not crowded.

The city plans to spend $472,000 in developing the new market the first year and another $200,000 after that. Funds for the initial project will come from sale of the present market to urban renewal and money in the market account.

B.H. Man Enters Plea Of Innocent

Accused Of False Robbery Report

William H. Gay, 28, of 1904 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent yesterday when arraigned before Municipal Judge Elizabeth Forhan on a charge of making a false report to police.

Gay was arrested early Monday morning by police who accused him of falsely reporting an armed robbery at his place of employment, the Zephyr gasoline station, 790 East Main street.

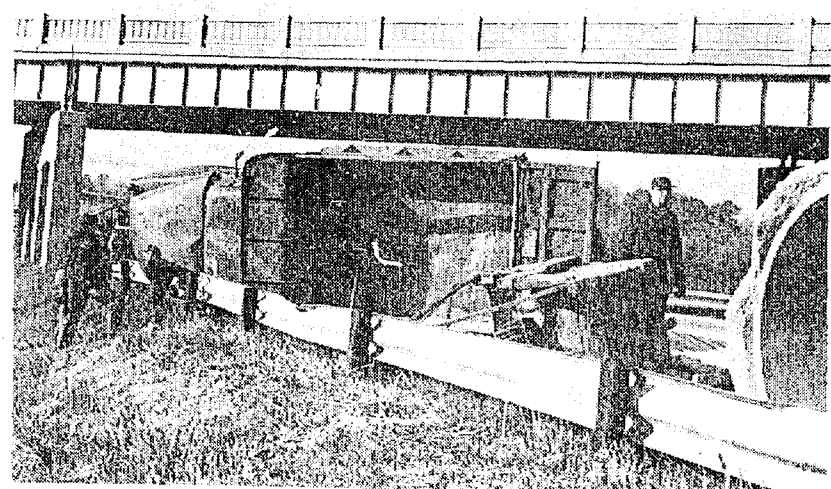

Police said the station had been under observation by an officer because of two earlier weekend reports from another employee concerning robberies. Police said no robbery was detected by Sgt. Earl Merrill, who watched the station from 8 p.m. Sunday, to about 1 a.m. Monday. Police said the two earlier reports still are regarded as robberies.

OTHER CASES
Also in court yesterday, Lee T. Johnson, 43, of 660 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to four traffic charges and paid fines totaling $110, plus court costs. He was arrested Friday evening following a property damage collision in Benton Harbor. He pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of careless driving, leaving the scene of a property damage accident, having improper license plates and violation of the uninsured motor vehicle act by not paying the $35 uninsured driver fee.

Will Soules, 40, of 197 Frederick street, Benton township, pleaded guilty to drunk driving and paid a $100 fine and costs. Joel Roschburgh, 49, of 395 Lincoln avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to drunk driving and paid a $100 fine and costs.

Rites Set For Victim Of Crash

Funeral services for Kenneth Hunter, killed in a two-truck collision yesterday morning, will be held Thursday at 3 p.m. at Dey Brothers funeral home, St. Joseph.

Hunter, 21, route 1, Baroda, was thrown from his dump truck as it skidded off I-94, just west of the I-96 exit ramp. Benton township. The truck, carrying a huge section of concrete drain pipe and an excavating machine shovel, overturned at the edge of the road.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said Hunter's truck had apparently brushed another truck that was passing it, and then veered off the road. The other driver, Lloyd Decker, 28, Houston, Mo., was uninjured.

Hunter suffered a crushed skull and broken neck, deputies said. He was dead on arrival at Mercy hospital in Benton Harbor.

Mr. Hunter was born Aug. 27, 1945 in Westover, Ala., and had moved to this area four months ago from Alabama. He was employed as a truck driver for the Bilton and Bilton

Two Grass Fires Halted In St. Joe

St. Joseph firemen put out two grass fires Monday afternoon.

They were called to the first one in a small ravine between 930 and 1200 Wolcott avenue at 4:07 p.m. and returned to station 20 minutes later.

The second blaze, reported at 6:39 p.m., was in grass and leaves on the south edge of the Children's Home property at 2000 South State street. This blaze is believed to have been set by children, firemen report. They were on the scene until 7:01 p.m.

Meeting Is Rescheduled

NEW BUFFALO—Mrs. Helen Durlin, New Buffalo township clerk, has announced that the regular November meeting of the township board has been changed from Tuesday, Nov. 8, to Wednesday, Nov. 9, due to the general election. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the township room of the city hall.

PROPERTY IN URBAN RENEWAL AREA B.H. Will Pay $108,273 For 7 Parcels

Biggest buying night in six months of urban renewal purchasing was observed Monday by Benton Harbor city commissioners who voted to pay $108,273.24 for seven parcels.

One of the sites is a factory building and four others are commercial.

Urban renewal also is moving ahead toward demolition of buildings previously acquired. Director Leslie Cripps said the fire department is planning to burn several houses in the "flats" for a three-fold purpose: razing of the buildings, removal of possible hazards and training for firemen.

Biggest price authorized last night was $45,572 to Business

Enterprises of Coloma composed of Robert Potts, Edgar H. Brown and Eugene DeFields. Property is at 169 Pipestone occupied by Kline's Paint & Wallpaper; 214 Pipestone, vacant; and 90 Wall street, vacant.

The estate of the late Martin Dunkirk will receive $25,001.24 for 230-240 Bond street housing Radiation Furnace Co. and a restaurant.

Other prices: $14,000 to Vivian and Milo Brown for 186 Wall street, the present urban renewal office; $12,800 to V. Emerson for 328 Colfax avenue, and $10,000 to Walter Roscher for 452 Ninth street.

City Manager Don Stewart

said the urban renewal department had reached agreement for four other purchases totaling $39,800 which the commission will act on next week.

In other business, Mayor Wilbert Smith sent to the legislative committee a report regarding a house at 1191 McAlister avenue. The notice was from Building Inspector Donald Muth who said the house is occupied by a family of 11 and overcrowded, according to the housing ordinance. An order to vacate has not been followed.

Owner-occupants were listed as Mr. and Mrs. Claude Corzine and family.

Two bids were received for four new police cars. Quotations including trade-ins: Twin Cities Chevrolet $5,530.65; General Auto Sales $6,599.

The commission acted to correct omission of an advertisement by this newspaper on vacating part of Brunson avenue for urban renewal purposes. Stewart said the advertisement never appeared, and there was also an error in text on property description which would have nullified it anyway. A new hearing was scheduled for Nov. 28. It will have only a legal status as the street already is vacated.

Resolutions of sympathy were expressed on the deaths of Ray T. Hall, former fire chief, and Leonard J. Smith, father of the mayor. Commissioner F. Joseph Flaugh described Mr. Hall as a "great leader and also a very courageous man" who developed a topnotch fire department.

Poll workers' pay was set for the Nov. 8 election at $20 for chairman and $18 for clerks.

Stewart reported on a meeting of the International City Managers association that he attended last week along with St. Joseph City Manager Leland Hill. Practically all cities are in the same boat with limited revenue and rising costs. The session produced several ideas that will be useful in the administration of Benton Harbor, he added.

Among Supervisors

Adoption of a $3,237,450 operating budget for Berrien county for 1967 and spreading $17,937,500 in taxes on property owners of the county passed the Berrien board of supervisors with less fuss Monday than did a pay raise for elected county officials totaling $7,100.

Although it drew a few questions from several city supervisors about the amount of increase for operation of the sheriff's department, the 1967 budget was adopted exactly as presented by the finance committee without a dissenting vote.

Approval of the nearly $18 million tax spread on property or county, school, city, township, Lake Michigan college, special education and other tax-supported units would have been unanimous except for a no vote by Niles Township Supervisor John McDonald. His objection was only for the record, because he may have to ask an amendment next month to correct what he said he thought might be a mistake in a special voted levy for his township.

ATTACK PROPOSAL

It was Niles City Supervisor Sheridan Cook and McDonald who attacked a proposal by the salary committee to raise the salaries of six elected county officials. Cook argued the raises for the sheriff, county clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, train commissioner and prosecutor were out of proportion to cross-the-board raises proposed in the budget for county employees. McDonald, in turn, proposed an amendment to the salary hike resolution that would have cut a $2,200 raise for County Clerk Forrest H. Kesterke to $1,000.

The amendment was defeated easily in a voice vote.

Timmer Has
New Job In South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN—The appointment of Fred Timmer as city administrative assistant was announced here yesterday by City Manager Leonard Harris.

The position was created as part of a move to coordinate interdepartmental operations, Harris said.

He said Timmer will work in conjunction with the city engineering department, which will continue to be in charge of city recreation and urban renewal activities and be responsible for issuing building permits and enforcing city codes and ordinances.

Timmer will also continue to be a secretary to the city planning and redevelopment commissions and act as a liaison between the two commissions and the city council, Harris said.

The 31-year-old Timmer has been serving in separate capacities as urban renewal director, recreation director and city health officer for several months.

His office, which has been located in the city recreation building, will be moved to city hall within the next two weeks, Harris said. The office in the recreation building will then be closed.

Timmer came here as recreation director in May, 1965, and was named urban renewal director in May 1965.

Harris said he has also hired Tom Southgate, 19, of St. Joseph, to work as a draftsman in the engineering department. Southgate, a native of England, has done some training in engineering and plans to further his education while in South Haven, Harris said.

School Projects

DOWAGIAC — An election on a $1.75 million elementary school building program was officially set for Tuesday, Dec. 13 in action taken by the Dowagiac board of education Monday evening.

Only registered voters who are property owners in the Dowagiac school district will be allowed to vote on the bond issue which is the third attempt in the last two years to obtain voter approval of elementary school construction.

If voters approve, the $1.75 million will go to build a new 13-room elementary school in Wayne township, add eight classrooms to the McKinley school, eight classrooms to the Sister Lakes school and seven classrooms to the Patrick Hamilton school.

Part of the money would be used to improve library facilities in the elementary schools and to pay for general renovations at these buildings.

READING PROGRAM

In other business, the school board approved a $55,000 reading program that will be paid for with federal funds.

The money will be used to employ seven reading specialists, nine library aides, seven reading aides plus a health aide. The object of this program is to help students who have trouble reading, especially those students from disadvantaged families.

The main impact of the program will be felt in the elementary grades by students in the higher grades will also be helped.

"We hope it will affect the entire reading program of the district," said School Supt. Dr. Kenneth Reinke.

On 'Blitz Tour'

"We've done our part. The rest is up to you," Michigan Gov. George Romney told about 100 Twin Cities area Republican leaders gathered yesterday at Ross field.

Gesturing toward U. S. Senator Robert Griffin, secretary of state hopeful George Washington and attorney general candidate Lawrence Lindemer, Romney said, "We're making this blitz tour to get you steamed up. From here on it's up to you."

The Ross field stop yesterday was the fourth airport rally in a series of eight conducted by the state level GOP slate yesterday.

Traveling in a plane of pre-World War II design, Romney, Griffin, Washington and Lindemer arrived only 10 minutes late at the Twin Cities airport, walked smartly to a semi-truck bed parked in front of the terminal, and were joined by area candidates for the state legislature.

LEADS SHOW

Gov. Romney dominated the proceedings, starting with high praise for the Benton Harbor high school band which, in full dress uniforms, played for the party's arrival.

Romney cheered: "We (the Republicans) got Michigan rolling again and I'm sure we don't want to see it back on the rocks, or on the Scholles," a pun on the name of August "Gus" Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO council.

The governor went on to imply a "special interest government connection between Scholle and former Michigan Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams, now running against Griffin for the U. S. Senate.

He introduced, one at a time, his three traveling companion candidates as well as U. S. Fourth District Congressman rations were:

• A government can't mismanage its finances and meet the needs of the people.

• A GOP victory will put an end to the special interest party (the Democrats).

• The Democratic legislature this year would have spent Michigan back into the red. Romney put the clamps on them with his veto.

• Griffin and Romney both attacked the fiscal record of former Gov. Williams while defending the Lundrum-Griffin bill as the "bill of rights of the working man."

RUNNING BLITZ

Before coming into Ross field at about 2:30 p.m. the entourage had started from Detroit, gone to a rally in downtown Ann Arbor and made airport stops at Jackson, Battle Creek and Kalamazoo.

After Benton Harbor the schedule called for airport rallies at Cadillac, Manistee, Alpena, and Gaylord with a rally and overnight stop at Traverse City.

Today the Upper Peninsula gets the second attack of "the blitz." Tomorrow it winds up in Pontiac. The election is one week from today.

Burning

ProhibitedEmergency Ruling
In Coloma Twp.

COLOMA — At an emergency session last night, the Coloma township board passed a resolution prohibiting the burning of leaves and trash outdoors. Persons found wilfully starting fires that get out of control will be held responsible for the cost of sending firemen to quell the blaze.

Coloma firemen have been plagued with grass and brush fires for the past week. On Monday they were called out five times.

Four of the calls were for grass fires that erupted at the Edward Vollrath property on Rosemary drive, on the Alfred Kolberg property on Curtis drive, on vacant property along Paw Paw Lake road near Johnson road and on Paw Paw street near Center street in Coloma. The fifth fire destroyed a small tenant building on the Ed Scheffler farm on North Branch road.

Extremely dry conditions and large amounts of dead leaves on the ground have contributed to the fire problem.

A fire that had raged for four days in a woods in Section three of Coloma township apparently was brought under control today by the Michigan Conservation department which took over fighting the blaze from the Coloma volunteer department Monday.

In other business, the township board also agreed to accept the recommendation of the zoning board and rezoned two lots in the Hickory Groves subdivision at Paw Paw Lake from residential to commercial to allow the construction of an apartment building on that site. The rezoning order specified that the land must be used for a residential apartment building only and for no other commercial enterprise.

Supervisor Roger Carter was appointed to meet with Coloma city officials to discuss problems at the city-township dump on North street. The state has ordered all open dumps such as this one to be closed.

New Tactic: Reds Shell Saigon

But Parade In Capital Continues

13 Killed; Enemy Gunners Escape

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong shelled the center of Saigon today in a defiant but unsuccessful attempt to break up the South Vietnamese government's National Day celebration.

Thirteen persons were reported killed — 12 Vietnamese and a U. S. naval officer. Thirty-seven more were reported wounded, including five Americans.

The Viet Cong hurled 24 rounds of 75mm recoilless rifle fire in and around the parade route, U. S. military headquarters said. Vietnamese authorities reported mortar shells also struck during the shelling.

The bombardment hit Saigon's Roman Catholic cathedral, a Catholic school, the John F. Kennedy Square, the Saigon central market and the French-built Grail Hospital, the biggest in the capital.

The bombardment, first of its kind by the Viet Cong against Saigon, failed to interrupt the massive parade marking the third anniversary of the overthrow of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem.

PARADE GOES ON
For two hours and 20 minutes, soldiers of the South Vietnamese armed forces and the six nations allied with them paraded before tens of thousands and leading Vietnamese and foreign dignitaries.

U. S. military headquarters said the shelling came from a point 3 1/2 miles southeast of Saigon near An Khanh Ka. Six U. S. gunship helicopters closed in on the area and artillery spotter planes were aloft. A ground force of allied troops also swept the area but the Viet Cong gunners apparently escaped.

U. S. headquarters announced that three Viet Cong were captured near the parade grounds at Kennedy Square. A spokesman said they were armed with grenades and small arms. A Vietnamese spokesman said four more Viet Cong, armed with grenades and weapons, were seized in the vicinity of the parade route.

The U. S. psychological warfare section set to work immediately to prepare leaflets to be dropped from the air over both North and South Viet Nam. A spokesman said the leaflets would decry the "murder of the innocents" and point out "the desperation of the Viet Cong in seeking to revive its flagging prestige."

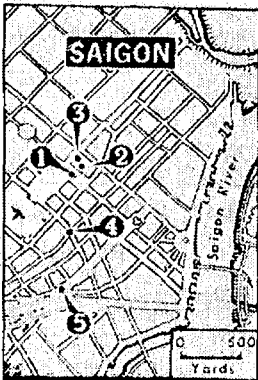

He said printing of the leaflets would start Wednesday and would carry a photograph of a woman killed in the central market square by the shelling. Fearing more terrorist incidents, U. S. authorities put the capital off limits to American servicemen.

The Viet Cong also hit a government army outpost just outside Saigon — apparently to divert attention during the shelling attack — but were driven off without causing casualties.

However, 14 miles southeast of the capital, a small wooden-hulled U. S. Navy minesweeper boat sank after it hit a Communist mine and was raked by Viet Cong small-arms and automatic weapons fire. Casualties among the seven-man crew were reported heavy.

Attorney General Candidates

GOP Challenger Faces Big Odds

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a five-part series on the major statewide races in the Nov. 8 election. It deals with the candidates for attorney general.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The little-known candidate struggles for recognition against the apparently popular incumbent.

And while he tries to familiarize the public with his name, the incumbent makes news almost at will through the activities of his key state office.

And to top it all off, polls show the incumbent with a margin political observers consider almost too comfortable.

Democratic challenger Zolton Ferency versus Gov. George Romney?

No Republican challenger Lawrence Lindemer versus Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

In the race to head Michigan's largest law firm, the big issue this year is crime.

Kelley points to the record four grand juries he has asked for and been granted in the past 14 months as evidence of a strong, vigorous campaign against organized crime.

Lindemer uses the same evidence in his attempt to show Kelley's fight against crime increased in intensity in inverse relation to the length of the time left before the election.

The attorney general is the chief law enforcement officer of the state. Heading a staff of or some 85 lawyers he also serves as the primary and official legal advisor to state officials and county prosecutors.

Governor Romney and heads of the legislative department must turn to Kelley for interpretations of their powers and duties and rulings on the meaning and effect of new state laws.

FRANK J. KELLEY
Kelley, seeking his third elected term, has made use of the built-in public forum his office provides. His most recent pronouncements included recommended legislation aimed at ending the mounting death and accident toll involving motorcyclists and an announcement that he will fight to keep the federal government from splitting Michigan's Upper and Lower Peninsulas between Eastern and Central time zones.

He points to consumer protection legislation based on ground-work done by his office and recommendations he has made. Among them was a new code regulating hearing aid sales.

Kelley has asked for more grand juries than any previous attorney general: two in Wayne County to investigate alleged ticket fixing, organized crime and corruption in government, one in Oakland to investigate horse racing and one in Kent to probe charges that meat from unsupervised and unlicensed slaughterhouses was reaching the consumer.

The 41-year-old former Detroit lawyer who went to Alpena in 1954 to become a "big fish in a smaller pond," frequently points with pride to another record he has set since becoming the largest fish in the Michigan legal community.

Only one of the 575 opinions he has handed down since he was appointed in 1961 has been overturned in court.

Kelley's activities extend to virtually every field of Michigan, and Midwest, life. These include the St. Lawrence Seaway, Great Lakes water diversion and pollution and even the 1835 "Toledo War," which still smolders in a Michigan-Ohio boundary dispute in Lake Erie.

Kelley serves as first vice president of the National Association of Attorneys General, and is due for the presidency next year.

He won his first election, in 1962, by 118,000 votes and the 1964 election by 569,000.

LAWRENCE B. LINDEMER
Lindemer, a Stockbridge lawyer and former Republican state chairman is asking Kelley — primarily for the benefit for the voters — why the fight against crime happened to gain such momentum so soon before an election.

It follows four years of relative calm on the crime-busting front, he says.

Kelley, he says, was too inactive too long in the fight, and he wasted much of his time in the past feuding with Romney.

The spotlight of publicity turned by Kelley on the West Michigan meat investigation may have opened loopholes for the defendants, Lindemer says.

And then there was Kelley's visit to the apartment of Angelo Meli, alleged Mafia member, in Florida last winter. Kelley was guilty of "incredibly bad judgment," the challenger says.

Kelley says Meli invited him to the apartment to object to what he felt was a too-frequent linking of one nationality group with organized crime.

Kelley adds he accepted the invitation to keep open potentially useful channels of information.

Lindemer served one term in the Michigan Senate, 1951-52, and headed the state's Republican organization from 1956 to 1961.

A native of Syracuse, N. Y., he moved to Michigan shortly after his marriage and received his law degree from the University of Michigan.

Lindemer, 45, practices law in Lansing and heads the local telephone company in nearby Stockbridge.

Byrns Tells Kiwanians About Job

Describes Circuit Judge's Duties

Atty. Chester Byrns let his fellow Kiwanians know yesterday that he will pass starting next year when he becomes Berrien Circuit Judge Byrns.

Byrns will succeed retiring Judge Philip A. Hadsell. He is reported to be the only unopposed candidate for a Circuit court seat in Michigan who is not currently an incumbent.

Speaking to the Kiwanis club's weekly luncheon in Benton Harbor's Vincent hotel, Byrns said he looked for child custody cases and sentences to pose the biggest problems.

Divorce cases, he reminded, form the bulk of circuit court dockets, with the resultant fate of children involved in many of these cases.

As to sentences, Byrns maintained that a sound judge fits the punishment to the individual where ever possible, with an eye to the individual who can become rehabilitated.

Byrns said his job during forthcoming trials will be similar to that of a referee, with the trial, itself, the testing ground to seek truth. Maintaining rules of the game and preserving fair play, he said, are essential.

Basically, Byrns said, it's vital to arrive at the truth in circuit court, since this is the prime trial court of the state. He noted that many cannot afford appeal costs.

The candidate also commented on the importance of the judicial system to the United States and the need for qualities of self discipline, fairness and courage in judges.

As to the election, Byrns requested all persons to vote for circuit judges in Berrien, as well as other offices, even though the former offers no contest. And, as to elections, he observed that while circuit judges hold office in Michigan through elections, about 60 per cent in Michigan first went to the bench through appointments by the governor to fill vacancies.

Al Williams
Places Third In Judging

A correction in the announcement of winners at the Berrien county land judging contest between six county high schools today by Berrien Extension Agricultural Agent Clare Musgrave.

He said Al Williams, rather than David Freehling, was the third highest-scoring member of the river Valley high school judging team. The contest was won by the Niles high school team and the top three members of all teams were listed.

Help Pay For New Fire Truck

EAU CLAIRE — The Berrien township board Monday night authorized the payment of $1,200 as its share of a new panel truck for the fire department jointly operated by Eau Claire, Berrien township, and Pipestone township.

Pipestone township will also pay $1,200 on the truck under an agreement in which the township purchases fire fighting equipment and Eau Claire pays for operating the fire station, which is located in the village.

The township board also paid $325 on sanitary land fill operation costs, $196 for township hall improvements plus $201 for October fire protection.

ON HALLOWEEN

B.H. Firemen Use Brooms

Halloween had nothing to do with it yesterday afternoon as Benton Harbor firemen used brooms to extinguish a brush blaze in a swampy area along the 100 block of Klock road. It's just that brooms work best on some kinds of brush blazes.

Other brush and leaf fires were put out at 8:47 p.m. in the 500 block of Green avenue; and at 3:45 p.m., in the 600 block of East High street.
